Fund Objective

The Secure model aims to achieve a return of inflation + 1.5% p.a. on a rolling five-year basis. Since inception in July 2012, a notional investment of $10,000 would now be worth $14,043.

Performance Review

	3 Months %	1 Year %	3 Years %	5 Years %
Net return	2.04	5.34	3.61	4.28
Objective (CPI + 1.5%)	0.38	2.83	3.29	3.10
Standard deviation			1.56	1.96
Standard deviation – ASX 300 index			9.03	11.10

Net return is shown after investment fees and costs but before administration fees. Standard Deviation is a historical measure of the degree to which the portfolio's returns varied over time. The higher the standard deviation, the greater the likelihood that a portfolio's performance will fluctuate and exhibit volatility. Lower standard deviations indicate that the historical returns have been less volatile.

Growth of $10,000

Fund Commentary

The Secure model returned 2.04% over the June quarter, significantly above its objective. Returns over the longer term have also been strong, and materially above objective in the 1, 3 and 5 year categories.

Investment markets delivered impressive returns for the 2018/19 financial year, although it was a bumpy ride. Shares fell significantly in the last three months of 2018, due to indications from the US Federal Reserve that monetary policy conditions would be tightened. US shares make up around 60% of the entire world stock market; therefore, the sharp drop in US shares had a global impact. However, the monetary policy stance was subsequently eased, which led to US shares rebounding throughout 2019. Australian shares recovered especially well, as a surge in the iron ore price also benefitted mining companies and resource stocks more generally.

Fixed Interest was also a standout, with an extraordinary 9.57% benchmark annual return for Australian bonds. Bond valuations initially rose following the drop in equity markets (the 'flight to safety' factor) in late 2018. The June quarter saw Bond prices rise dramatically after the RBA cut interest rates by 50 basis points, an outcome the market had not expected.
